Historic, Archive Document

Do not assume content reflects current scientific knowledge, policies, or practices.

A321
Ex8F

UNITED STATES
DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
LIBRARY

BOOK NUMBER A321
Ex8F
911823

Four Suggestions for

HOME DEMONSTRATION EXHIBITS

These ideas may need to be adapted to suit your particular program, or they may suggest other exhibits.

If you have no one with lettering ability to help you, you may want to use ready-made letters. They come in a variety of colors, styles and sizes, and many of the letters are backed with gum or other adhesive. Or you may want to try stencil letters, also available in many sizes.

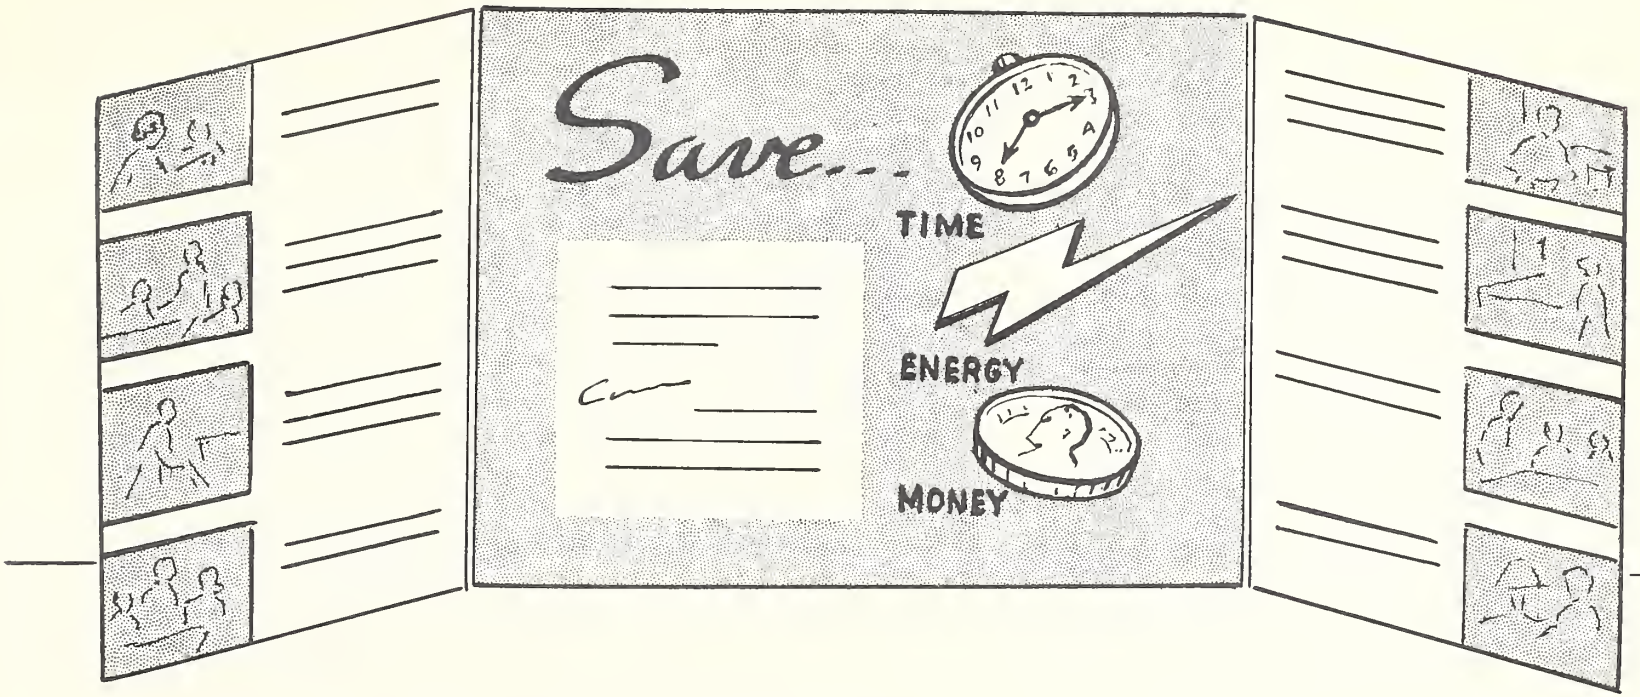
If you are designing your own exhibit, try to make one part of it big enough to dominate and thereby catch the eye.

Pictures and signs may be glued or rubber cemented to the background board, or they may be put on with tacks or a staple gun.

FEDERAL EXTENSION SERVICE

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

LIBRARY
RECEIVED
DEC 28 1956
U. S. DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE



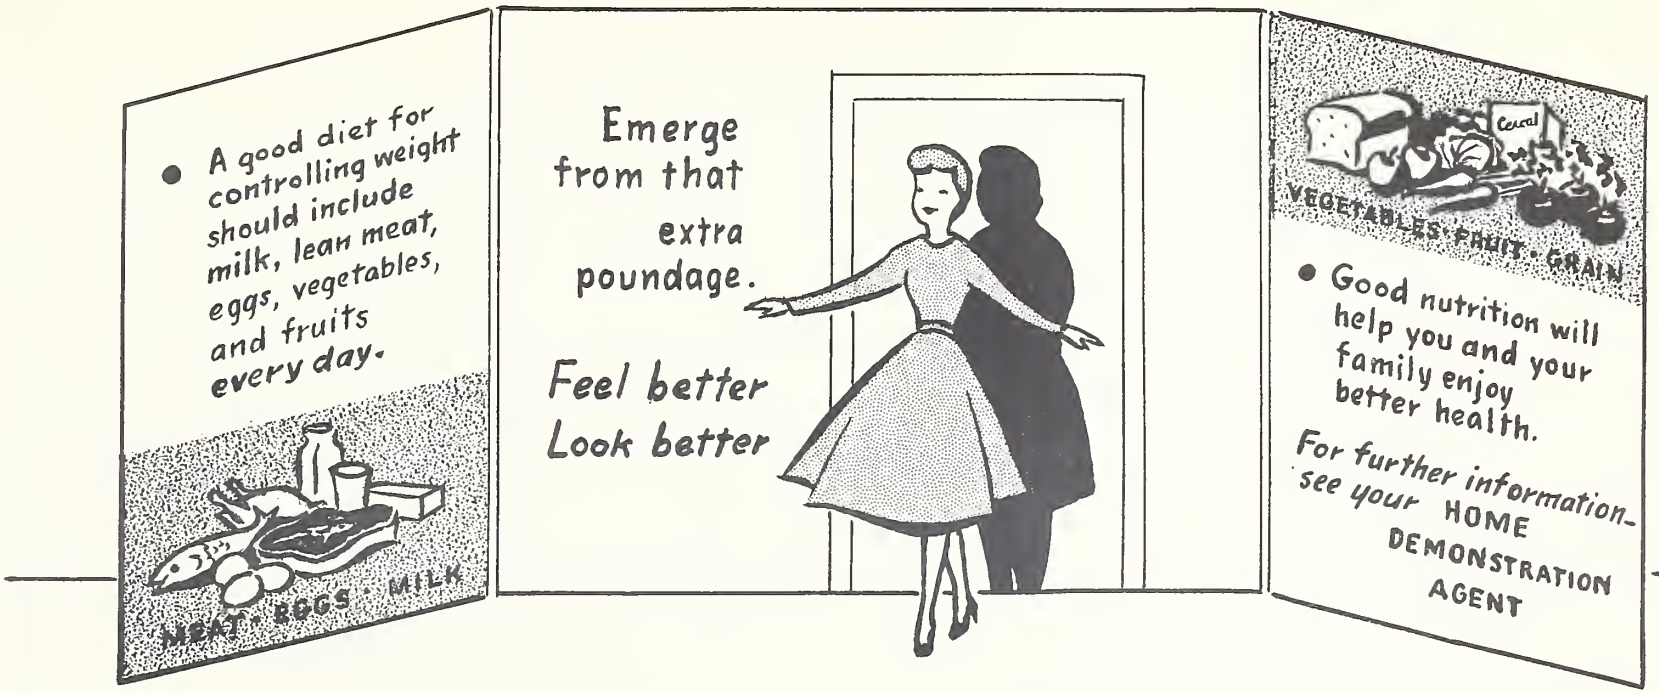
Illustrations on center panel could be cut out of fairly heavy cardboard. Use a colored cardboard for this panel. Rectangles on end panels indicate pictures (matte photographs or clippings from magazines). Reading matter is indicated by ruled lines. Fill in your own.

Use actual jeans or overalls and objects from pocket. Label the items, which could be the following:

Skate key	Rubber bands	Matchbook covers
Nails	Pocketknife	Watch
Piece of string	Candy bar cover	Wallet

The effect will be more pleasing if the background color behind these objects is different from that of the rest of the center panel. An arrangement of literature on child care and psychology could be mounted on the first panel.

Cut out enlargement of label with face painted on it. Use actual clothing if panels are large enough to hold it. If not, artwork or doll's clothing could be used. Fill in lower part of right panel with sample labels.



Use actual mannequin or doll for slender woman. Frame of door can be painted on cardboard with silhouette of stout woman painted within it. Cutting the silhouette out and covering the back of the cardboard with dark paper would make a more impressive effect. The horizontal panels of pictures at the bottom of the first panel and at the top of the third could be made of colored illustrations cut from magazines and seed catalogues.